

L. Garlic
Flower

R.
Garden
with Lynnda

Foxglove and Lamb's Ears flowers

The crowd gathers to watch the Lavender Cookie Contest judges on right. Who won? The woman in white in the center. Who is she? What is her recipe? Please contact me if you know.

Lavender in bloom for the Lavender Fair.

Jane Birdsong, Chris Richards and Jesse Johnson judge the Lavender Cookie Contest entries.

Mud River Pottery Booth

Unknown Lavender Cookie Contest winner gives Chef Dale Hawkins a sample. Who is she?

Country Petals
herbal platter

Maureen Rogers of the Herb Growing and Marketing Network and Country Petals artisan

Foxglove blossoms

Country Petals Booth

Is this a Leopard Frog lurking in the woods?

Happy Mushroom Hunters return from the hunt.

Beautiful Necklace by Leisa Null

Dot Montgillon of Smoke Camp Crafts advises my sister, Binnie Bonhage-Bailey and her friend, Patsy McCloskey.

Looking from the Silvery Labyrinth down to the Booths in the Big Fragrant Garden.

How can Executive Chef - Dale Hawkins keep getting better every Fair - there is no better! But he does it anyway!

Crystal brought to the Labyrinth by another dowser.

Volunteers Liz Jarrett and Elaine Ferry take a well deserved break to sample the herb books at a booth.

Seen through the bathtub in the Garden Participants and booths at the Lavender Fair.

That's me in the corner - my daughter made this beautiful blouse for me just for the Lavender Fair!

Now which one of these bathtubs will I paint?

Melissa Dennison of Garden Treasures once again enthralled a large group of Lavender Wand Makers.

The Feng Shui Garden shines in the light of the sun - my intention came true - a beautiful day even though the forecast said otherwise! Oh ye of little faith!

Close Up of Lavender Wand Makers

Close Up of Tomato and Green Bean Salad

One of over seven picnic areas filled with luncheon guests.

Crystal in Leisa Null's booth.

Close Up of one of the many culinary delights at the Fair.

There are a pair of garter snakes who inhabit the rocks in the thyme Garden - they came out to see the visitors too!

I believe there are two intertwined snakes (garter) shown here. They were not shy!

The vegetable garden with parking lot filled with cars in distance. My gracious neighbor, Charlie Kraus, again handled the overflow on his property.

Who is she?

She won the Lavender Cookie contest but remains unknown.

She gave me her name and the recipe and it was lost in the kitchen at La Paix.

If you know this woman, please contact me

A beautifully framed vignette of Melissa's lavender.

Both local TV stations covered the Lavender Fair again this year. My daughter, Kathleen Shannon O'Brien Hale, made this blouse especially for me to wear at the Fair. My son, William Nicoll Hale III, again volunteered his precious time to do the registration and anything and everything else he was asked to do.

Nancy Kemper, one of many wonderful volunteers stands outside the La Paix shop - she sold great quantities of my products. She says she will return next year. Yeah!

Interior of La Paix Herb Farm's Shop with hydrosols, Passionate Gardener's Hand Cream, Fragrance Creams, Books, Comfrey Comfort Salve and Peaceful Kitty Catnip, Paintings & Prints.